Golf in Northern Ireland

The essential guide

Welcome

From the dedicated golfer to the first timer, Northern Ireland offers new places, new stories and new experiences to last a lifetime.

Imagine adding world-renowned courses such as Royal Portrush or Royal County Down to your repertoire or our hidden links gems such as Ardglass, Portstewart or Castlerock. Such evocative names are your first clue that golf in Northern Ireland is something out of the ordinary - a real find for the avid golfer seeking the exceptional.

As diverse as it gets...

Here you will find over 90 very diverse courses - every one a unique gem. Whether you're seeking a championship experience, dramatically scenic settings, a slice of history, links or parkland, or simply idyllic tranquillity, Northern Ireland has it all.

We also have 4 superb golf resorts for you to enjoy. Lough Erne Resort in the heart of the Fermanagh Lakelands, Roe Park Resort near Derry~Londonderry, the Hilton Templepatrick Resort in the heart of Co. Antrim close to Lough Neagh and golfing at Galgorm.

What's more, Northern Ireland is so compact and easy to get around; you'll be amazed just how much you can squeeze into one visit!

Northern Ireland's soft climate, warmed by tropical gulf streams, makes it ideal for golf all year round. Dramatic landscapes, quality accommodation and the hearty warm welcome which awaits you, mean that your next golfing holiday could really be the best you'll ever experience.

Northern Ireland & Republic of Ireland

Royal Portrush Golf Club, Co. Antrim

Northern Ireland, Made for Golf

In geographic terms, Northern Ireland is not a huge country. But when it comes to golf, make no mistake: we're a giant, with over 90 courses – and champions like Rory McIlroy, Darren Clarke and Graeme McDowell to prove it.

It's true what they say: major courses make major winners. And however good your game – from absolute beginner to pro – we've got you covered, from gentle links to the most challenging championship courses. You'll find the number one in the world here, as voted by the panellists of Golf Digest – Royal County Down – as well as Royal Portrush, home to the Open Championship in 2019. And in the splendid Royal Belfast, we also have the oldest course in Ireland.

Our climate is soft and temperate, meaning it's good for golf pretty much all year round. (And a little rain now and then never hurt anyone, let alone got in the way of 18 holes.)

Homegrown heroes

Rory McIlroy

- Rory won the 2011 US Open at Congressional Country Club with the lowest score in history, 16 under par.
- He has 13 European Tour and 14 PGA Tour wins.
- Rory is a four-time Major champion, and is one of only four players to win three majors by the age of 25.

Rory on Northern Ireland:

"I'm very proud to be from Northern Ireland and our little country has produced some great players over the years. We have some of the greatest courses in the world. There are great tests, great views, great hospitality, and all that you would want to get from a great day of golf."

Darren Clarke

- In 2002, Darren became the first player to win the English Open three times.
- He was the first player other than Tiger Woods to capture a second World Golf Championship title.
- In 2011, Darren won The Open Championship at Royal St. George's and was appointed as Europe's team captain for the 2016 Ryder Cup.

Graeme McDowell

- Graeme was the first Northern Ireland golfer to win the US Open Championship.
- He was also the first Northern Ireland man to win a major since Fred Daly won the 1947 Open Championship.
- He has 10 European Tour and 3 PGA Tour wins to his name.

Graeme on NI golf fans:

"I believe the Northern Irish fans are some of the best in the world and it's always a special atmosphere that they create."

Fred Daly

- Fred was a Portrush native who won The Open Championship in 1947 at the Royal Liverpool Golf Club, Hoylake.

The 148th Open, Royal Portrush

The Open is one of the largest golf Championships in the world and returns to Royal Portrush in Northern Ireland for the first time since 1951.

On 14-21 July 2019, the eyes of the world will be on Northern Ireland's biggest ever sporting event, as The Open is contested outside Scotland and England for just the second time in the Championship's history.

Record crowds will arrive in the seaside town of Portrush on the world-famous Causeway Coastal Route to see some of the world's best golfers compete for the Claret Jug, the coveted trophy previously won by Northern Ireland heroes Rory McIlroy, Darren Clarke and Fred Daly.

The Open, 1951

The Open was first staged outside of Britain for the first time in 1951, when the Championship was played at Royal Portrush. It was Max Faulkner who claimed his only Major Championship that year, with a two-shot victory during a wet weekend in County Antrim. The flamboyant Faulkner, often dressed in bright colours, found the course to his liking, having twice been a runner-up in the Irish Open at the same venue.

Royal Portrush Golf Club

Royal Portrush is one of the world's top 10 courses (Golf Digest, 2017) and is still the only Irish course to host The Open.

It hosted The Senior Open between 1995 & 1999 and again in 2004. Then in 2012, it also hosted the Irish Open won by Jamie Donaldson. This was the first time a European Tour event had been played in Northern Ireland, the first time since 1953 that the Irish Open had been played in Northern Ireland, and the first time a European Tour event sold out.

Founded in 1888, the legendary Royal Portrush Golf Club has two Championship Courses – the renowned Dunluce Course - named after the 13th Century castle overlooking the course - and the Valley Course. Both share an impressive North Atlantic backdrop with breathtaking views of Scotland and Donegal.

Course Icons

The 'Old' Tom Morris course design, reworked by H.S. Colt in the 1930s, was The Open site back in 1951, and will be again in 2019.

During the entire Championship in 1951, only two golfers managed to break 70 and it's easy to see why. Portrush can challenge even the most experienced of golfers. Its most celebrated holes are 'White Rock' and 'Calamity'. The fifth hole, 'White Rock' is one of the most exhilarating two-shots in golf. Over hit the second shot, and your ball disappears into the Atlantic!

The aptly named 'Calamity' requires total precision to carry the ball over an enormous ravine. Mis-hit this one and you could be taking your next swing from at least fifty feet below the hole.

Ready for 2019

In preparation for 2019's Championship, architect Martin Ebert added new sixth and seventh holes, fashioned from land on the club's Valley Course, to replace its 17th and 18th. That means Calamity will now be the 16th instead of the 14th as it was previously, and the old par-4 16th will now be the closing hole. However, Ebert did retain Colt's famous greens, considered some of the best putting surfaces in the world.

The overall length of the course has also increased by just under 200 yards to 7337 yards and the number of bunkers have increased by three to 62, still leaving Royal Portrush with the fewest bunkers of any of the courses which host The Open.

On the return of The Open

It's not just the fans who are thrilled to see The Open heading to Royal Portrush again. The players can't wait to see it back on their home turf.

Darren Clarke, said, "This is going to be absolutely huge for Northern Ireland and, indeed, Ireland as a whole. To have the world's biggest and best golf Championship played at such a fantastic venue as Royal Portrush, with all the passion that the Irish fans will bring to the event, is going to be amazing."

Graeme McDowell added: "It only means great things for the whole province of Northern Ireland, the whole country of Ireland, with visitors coming over, a huge boost to the economy. Just so many great things will fall out from the opportunity."

And Rory McIlroy, who lifted the Claret Jug at Royal Liverpool in 2014, is really looking forward to it too. He said, "Royal Portrush is one of my favourite golf courses in the world. I think it will be a fantastic Open venue. They are going to add a couple of new holes to the golf course and I think that will be a great addition and will make the course even stronger."

"For me, Northern Ireland really is made for golf. I'd urge anyone who hasn't played on one of our many superb courses to give it a go. It really is one special place to play the game."

Meet our world-famous links and our stunning parkland tracks

Ballycastle Golf Club, Co. Antrim

Ardglass Golf Club Type of course: Seaside/Links Length of course in yards: 6268 Par: 70	The dramatic layout of the course with several tees and greens overlooking the ocean gives it a really rugged feel. It is part links, part cliff-top in nature. The course meanders its way out to a headland, then winds its way back, offering some of the most thrilling views and play bar none.
Ballycastle Golf Club Type of course: Parkland/Links Length of course in yards: 5876 Par: 71	Established in 1890, Ballycastle Golf Club is a founding member of the Golfing Union of Ireland. Despite some additions over the years, the course has remained largely unchanged since its final layout in 1926. It provides some outstanding views, from the ancient Bonamargy Abbey to the panoramic backdrop of Glenshesk and the Causeway Coastal Route.
Castlerock Golf Club Type of course: Links Length of course in yards: Bann Course, 4892; Mussenden, 6780 - Blue Markers, 6481 - White Markers Par: Bann Course, 68; Mussenden, 73	Castlerock Golf Club sits on the scenic Causeway Coastal Route. Set among rolling sand dunes, it boasts eye-catching views of Donegal, Scotland and the Isle of Islay. There are 2 courses, the 18-hole Mussenden Course with firm fast greens, and the 9-hole Bann Course, which gets golfers closer to the sea again.
Portstewart Golf Club Type of course: Links Length of course in yards: Strand, 7004; Riverside, 5725; Old, 4733 Par: Strand, 72; Riverside, 68; Old, 64	Home to three 18-hole courses, Portstewart Golf Club offers an abundance of challenges to golfers of all abilities. The indisputable jewel in Portstewart's crown is the Strand Course, which tested the players at 2017's Dubai Duty Free Irish Open.
Royal County Down Type of course: Links Length of course in yards: Championship, 7186; Annesley, 4548 Par: Championship, 71; Annesley, 66	Royal County Down is located in the naturally beautiful links setting of Murlough Nature Reserve, where the links stretch along the shores of Dundrum Bay. Narrow ribbons of fairways, dotted with the famous 'bearded' bunkers, thread their way through sand dunes surrounded by heather and gorse.
Royal Portrush Golf Club Type of course: Links Length of course in yards: Dunluce, Championship, 7317, Medal, 6705; Valley, Championship, 6346, Medal, 6107 Par: Dunluce, 72; Valley, 71	The Dunluce Course at Portrush hosted the first ever Open Championship held in Ireland in 1951, during which only two golfers managed to break 70. The course will be put to the test again in 2019, when The Open Championship returns.

Belvoir Park Golf Club Type of course: Parkland Length of course in yards: 6685 Par: 70	Designed by Harry Colt, Belvoir Park Golf Club sits just 3 miles from Belfast city centre, but is perfectly etched through a vast forest of trees. Natural walls either side of lush weaving fairways provide shelter from the city bustle and a challenge for players.
Hilton Templepatrick Golf Club Type of course: Parkland Length of course in yards: 7081 Par: 72	This 18-hole course, designed by David Jones and David Feherty, is acclaimed as one of Northern Ireland's finest. It features 7000 yards of testing fairways and greens, interspersed with lakes and mature parkland.
Lough Erne Resort Type of course: Lakeland Length of course in yards: 7167 Par: 72	This unforgettable golf course, nestled on a private 600 acre peninsula between Lower Lough Erne and Castle Hume Lough, is the first in Ireland designed by six-time Major winner, Sir Nick Faldo. Given its unique location, it's no surprise that water comes into play a lot at Lough Erne, with 11 of the 18 holes providing danger.
Malone Golf Club Type of course: Parkland Length of course in yards: 9 Holes, 3160; 18 Holes, 6706 Par: 9 Holes, 36; 18 Holes, 71	Located amidst 300 acres of wooded parkland, Malone Golf Club boasts 27 holes, made up of Ballydrain, Drumbridge and Edenderry nines. Plentiful mature trees shape many of the holes around the course, with a vast natural trout lake providing a fantastic centrepiece on the testing 13th.
Roe Park Resort Type of course: Parkland Length of course in yards: 6283 Par: 70	Located near the beautiful Causeway Coastal Route, this popular 18-hole parkland course provides not only a testing round with a number of challenging water features in play, but stunning views as well, with Lough Foyle and the Sperrin Mountains providing a dramatic backdrop.
Royal Belfast Golf Club Type of course: Parkland Length of course in yards: 6185 Par: 70	Situated on the shore of Belfast Lough, Royal Belfast is the oldest golf course in Ireland, and provides a true test of golfing skill as well as some of the most enjoyable scenic settings. The club became "Royal" in 1885 after the Prince of Wales was invited to become its patron during a visit to Ireland. The current patron is HRH Prince Andrew, Duke of York.
Galgorm Castle Golf Club Type of course: Parkland Length of course in yards: 6930 Par: 72	Home of the Northern Ireland Open, Galgorm Castle Golf Course is set in 220 acres of mature parkland in the grounds of one of Ireland's historic demesnes.

Quality to a tee

As if further proof was needed that our place is the best place to play golf... 35 of our courses have been accredited with a Golf Quality and Assurance award.

These awards set out to raise the bar when it comes to standards at golf clubs, with a particular focus on customer service.

Having these high standards for our golf industry means you can enjoy the experience at every step, from arrival at the car park, the welcome and reception you receive, clubhouse facilities and services as well as the golf course itself.

So we're not only delivering standards of excellence, we're working to exceed expectations.

The delivery of an excellent visitor experience at our golf clubs leads to an enhanced reputation and growing international success. With our world ranked players as well as our world class golf courses, Northern Ireland has much to be proud of.

The following pages highlight the clubs that have been recognised for their commitment to providing high quality visitor experiences – with a Golf Quality and Assurance award.

Browse through them, read all about them, then come and play them and experience them for yourself.

The ins and outs

What to Wear

In Northern Ireland, the weather forecast can often be all four seasons in a single day, so it's always advisable to pack your waterproofs. Smart casual is the accepted uniform in the clubhouse so leave the jeans and trainers behind. More traditional clubs may request a jacket and tie when using the dining room so it's a good idea to check with the club in advance.

Soft Spikes & Handicap Certificates

Many golf clubs now have a soft spikes only policy, so please check ahead of time. With handicap certificates now the accepted norm, be sure to bring your club certificate or club card with you.

Green Fees

Most clubs offer group rates which include green fees and club house catering. Clubs may offer concession rates for students, juveniles and seniors. Make your green fee reservations directly with the golf club.

Trolleys & Caddies

Trolleys are commonly used on our courses and are inexpensive to hire from most clubs. You can also book a caddy at some of our more popular championship courses. Simply make arrangements beforehand.

Currency & Credit Cards

Sterling is the currency used in Northern Ireland. While most shops, hotels and restaurants will accept most major credit cards, not all small businesses do, so it's a good idea to carry some cash with you to cover these expenses. Euro is accepted in selected areas, generally border regions and larger cities.

Ardglass Golf Club

Situated on the south-east coast of County Down, Ardglass is unquestionably one of the most spectacular courses in Ireland, having won the Irish Golf Tour Operators Association Best Links Course of the Year Award Oct 2011.

The dramatic layout of the course with several tees and greens overlooking the ocean gives it a really rugged feel. It is part links, part cliff-top in nature. The course meanders its way out to a headland, then winds its way back, along the way offering some of the most thrilling play bar none. The first five holes are truly memorable and run right alongside the sea. The par 3 2nd (Howd's Hole) is many people's favourite and many people's undoing. With the tee shot needing to be fired across a rocky inlet, it is a real death-or-glory hole, somewhat reminiscent of the notorious 3rd at Tralee, County Kerry.

"At only 158 yards it may not be as damaging to the score card as 'Calamity' at Portrush but it nevertheless comes with a health warning" (Golf World). A second magnificent par 3 is the downhill 12th where the Irish Sea can provide a daunting diversion and when the wind is dead against you, it can be truly intimidating. The final hole however, offers a good chance of a closing birdie, and then it's off to the 19th – in true Ardglass style, a restored castle. Bring plenty of spare golf balls! Host of The 2018 Girls' British Open Amateur Championship.

Did you know?

Ardglass Golf Club has the oldest building in the world being used as a Clubhouse. It's built on the remains of fortified warehouses erected around 1400. Naturally, the Golf Club has its fair share of stories, ghostly and otherwise.

Ballycastle Golf Club

The seaside resort of Ballycastle is situated on the Causeway Coast which is a designated an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

Founded in 1890, Ballycastle Golf Club is a founder member of the Golfing Union of Ireland. Despite modest beginnings, on a local area of sandy turf known as the Warren, the original nine holes opened in 1891. By 1926 the final layout was created and the current 18 hole course has remained largely unchanged to the present day.

The course 'clubhouse' prior to 1901 consisted of a wood and corrugated iron hut. Over the years a fully functioning clubhouse was developed up to 2003 when the clubhouse was rebuilt and extensively modernised, providing excellent golfing facilities for both members and visitors.

The first five parkland holes are bounded by the rivers Margy and Carey and the ancient Bonamargy Abbey is situated alongside the second, 3rd and 4th holes. The outstanding panoramic views of Glenshesk and the North Antrim Coast may force you to take your eye off the ball more often than you would like.

Did you know?

Bonamargy Friary, situated in the middle of Ballycastle's golf course, is the resting place of the reclusive 'Black Nun' Julia McQuillan. She requested to be laid to rest at the entrance of the Abbey so worshippers would forever tread on her grave.

Ballyclare Golf Club

Founded in 1923 and set in the rolling green countryside of Ballyclare, this mature 18 hole parkland course makes good use of the natural features of its landscape, particularly the local river and tree-lined fairways which provide a fabulous setting and demanding challenge.

The course, woven through the Antrim countryside, presents an enjoyable test with lakes in play on three holes for a fabulous setting that all are sure to find accessible. The signature hole is the demanding par 4 third hole "Orpinsmill", where you are faced with a breathtaking tee shot. Out of bounds lies in wait on the left, opposite two lakes on the right, which lead to a tree-protected green, proving just how entertaining the tumbling parkland of Ballyclare can be. At 6,373 yards, there are plenty of longer holes for the power players to go for broke, while bunkers and avenues of woodland mean considered course management and precision are rightly rewarded. After your round you'll find the clubhouse provides an inviting and friendly atmosphere with excellent dining facilities for enjoying an array of food and drink options with bar snacks, daily specials and a full A La Carte menu available and a friendly bar in which to settle after your round or even a place to rest your weary head after a day on the golf course.

Bangor Golf Club

Bangor golf course was designed and laid out in 1935 by the pre-eminent golf course architect of the time, James Braid, the legendary golfer who won the Open championship five times.

Seventy years on, trees planted then can now be seen in their full beauty, and the fairways and greens would do justice to many a course. There are stunning views of Belfast Lough, the Antrim Hills, the Irish Sea and the coast of Scotland from the top of the 4th hill and the view from the Clubhouse windows can't be beat.

The course has attracted some major events, including the Ulster and Irish Professional Championships and Pro-Ams in which names such as Christy O'Connor Senior, Fred Daly, Peter Allis, Tony Jacklin and Roberto de Vincenzo featured.

The professional record was set on August 1962 by Christy O'Connor Senior who scored 62 with nine birdies, eight pars and an eagle at the 460 yard 5th hole.

The length of the course is 6410 yards from the medal tees, and although not an especially difficult course, it is enough of a challenge to entertain good players without discouraging the less skilled.

Belvoir Park Golf Club

Northern Ireland golfers are very fortunate to enjoy several fine examples of the esteemed H.S. Colt's talents for course design, with Belvoir Park considered one of the best.

Belvoir Park Golf Club is just 3 miles from the city centre of Belfast, but you wouldn't know it once you are on the course.

Golfers are shielded from the noise and sights of the city by huge, mature trees which line every fairway, many of which were well established in 1927 when the course was first built using teams of horses and hand ploughs. Largely unaltered since its design, the only changes to the course have been brought about by thoughtful planting of 40,000 new trees in the late 1950s.

From the balcony of the imposing new clubhouse, the green fingers of the fairways fan out like avenues, giving panoramic views of the 9th green, 10th fairway, 13th tee and 18th green. To the right of the clubhouse can be seen Samson and Goliath, the twin cranes of the Harland and Wolff shipyard which built the famous RMS Titanic passenger ship.

Mr. Harry Colt, upon being employed as course architect, reported, "I consider that it will be possible to make a course affording an excellent test and, at the same time, one that will give maximum of pleasure to players".

Cairndhu Golf Club

Cairndhu Golf Club is situated in 100 acres of parkland and surrounded by breath-taking views of the world famous Antrim Coast Road, the Glens of Antrim and the Scottish coastline.

The 6142 yard par 70 course is set upon a coastal headland and extensive mature parklands in what was once the historic Carnfunnock Estate.

From the first five holes there are extensive views of the Antrim coast, the Mull of Kintyre, and sea vistas extending to the Scottish Islands of Jura and Islay.

The signature hole is the 160 yard par 3 2nd "The Head" which is set upon the exposed headland. Depending on how the wind blows the tee shot to a narrow green can require an extensive variety of shots and poses a club selection dilemma.

The remaining four holes on the front nine descend into mature parkland with a variety of trees providing the course's main defences.

The more challenging back nine commences with our version of "Amen Corner". The 10th hole is a challenging 410 yard par 4, which is followed by a daunting 215 yard par 3.

Castlerock Golf Club

Castlerock Golf Club on the North Coast embodies all the essential charms of links golf. 'Miss this beauty and you are missing a treat!' David Brice, Golf International Inc.

Castlerock Golf Club, in the seaside village of Castlerock, lies approximately 5 miles due west of Coleraine on the North Coast. It's a fabulous links course set among rolling sand dunes. Its scenic qualities embrace the river Bann flowing, the eye-catching views of Donegal and, on a clear day, Scotland and the Isle of Islay.

The Championship Mussenden Course is a pure seaside routing with firm fast greens and an intimacy with the landscape. The best-known hole is the 4th, called the Leg o' Mutton, a 200 yard par 3 with a railway line out of bounds to the right, a stream which cuts across the fairway diagonally and a raised green. Most players look forward to reaching it, and even more feel relieved when it is behind them.

Even closer to the sea is the 9 hole Bann Course, which contains a par 5 described as, "one of the most scenic holes in Irish golf."

This superb 27 hole layout should be included in every golf itinerary, loosening up on the 9 hole Bann course, followed by a Clubhouse lunch, and putting your swing to the test of classic links golf.

Castlerock Golf Club recently redesigned six holes on the course in 2018. The redesign of this part of the course was led by golf course architect Dr Martin Hawtree.

Clandeboy Golf Club

This deservedly popular North Down club boasts two excellent courses, the Dufferin and the Ava. The vistas from the Dufferin Course over Belfast Lough and the Scottish Coast beyond, and Strangford Lough from the Ava Course create a perfect golfing ambience.

The Championship Dufferin Course, largely woodland/heathland in character, offers the golfer a genuine and demanding test. This highly rated course, renowned for its unforgiving opening holes, is exacting in its demands for skill, and memorable for its special features.

The signature hole is surely the 386 yard par 4 4th where the daunting tee shot into a narrow-necked fairway embraced on both sides by gorse heather and trees sends shivers through even the most hardened veteran.

The Ava Course is the perfect partner to its sister course, exemplified by 'Tower Gap', the 524 yard par 5 2nd hole, rated one of the best holes in Ireland. Narrow fairways, established trees, gorse, bracken, rock close to the surface and all the other hazards of an unspoilt landscape make it a tough and varied challenge. A more sheltered course, the Ava's user friendly fairways make it extremely popular with members and visitors alike.

Dungannon Golf Club

Formed in 1890, Dungannon Golf Club is a founding member of the Golfing Union of Ireland. This pleasant parkland course has been extended in recent years with the advice of its famous member Darren Clarke.

Like other clubs of its vintage, the clubhouse facilities were small but in 2000, the clubhouse was completely rebuilt on the original site to provide the best facilities for the new Millennium.

Dungannon is also home to Northern Ireland's Darren Clarke, the 2011 Open Champion and it was Darren, now an Honorary Life Member, who officially opened the new Clubhouse in June 2000.

The course is located in typical drumlin countryside with Dungannon town as a backdrop. The course reflects the different acquisition dates of the front and back holes, in that the front nine are reasonably flat whilst the back nine test the fitness and psyche of the average golfer. Fairways throughout are wide to let the ponds, bunkers and course structure challenge the player.

One of these new holes, the signature 9th par 3 "Darren Clarke", features a narrow, ribbon-like crescent shaped green protected from the tee by a pond.

Dunmurry Golf Club

Dunmurry Golf Club is located in Dunmurry Lane, south-west of Belfast. It consists of an 18-hole course with a par of 70. The golf course provides the golfer with a unique opportunity to play one of Northern Ireland's finest layouts in a serene environment on outstandingly presented playing surfaces.

In 1983, Dunmurry Golf Club moved from its original location north of Dunmurry village to a site overlooking the River Lagan and adjacent to Sir Thomas and Lady Dixon Park. With views up the Lagan valley to the south and north towards the Belfast hills, the course merges into the woodlands comprising the Lagan Valley Regional Park.

Dunmurry has matured quickly and now provides some of the best playing conditions in the Belfast area. The 18 holes offer a variety of challenges, none more so than the par 5 fourth, requiring three accurate shots to reach an elevated, double-tiered green, the approach to which is well protected by mature trees.

It features over 6000 yards of challenging tee shots, fairways and greens interspersed with ponds, streams and mature parkland.

Surrounded by mature trees, the 13th green has a small landing area just ahead of a daunting pond. Reachable in two by skilled golfers, the undulating green has several tough pin positions to protect eagle putts. Many end up wondering why they took on the pond on this signature par 5. A true risk and reward hole.

The length of the course is 6278 yards from the medal tees. It has a good mix of holes to entertain the better players without discouraging the lesser skilled. A most attractive parkland course enclosed by the walls of the Kilmorey Estate at the foot of the Mourne Mountains. The par 72 championship course was designed by the famous Dublin golf architect Eddie Hackett.

Kirkistown Castle Golf Club

Situated on the Ards Peninsula coastline, Kirkistown Castle is a real old-fashioned gem. It is the nearest links golf course to Belfast and is uniquely the most easterly 18-hole golf course on the island of Ireland.

Here you can play 'The Open' style links at very reasonable green fee rates. Kirkistown Castle Golf Club has a huge variety of holes and being at the seaside means that 'wind' is nearly always something to be mastered as well as the subtleties of the course.

The legendary golf course architect James Braid designed the layout in 1934 and little has changed since.

The signature hole is the par 4 10th, measuring 435 yards. With out of bounds all along the left side, some bunkering on the right and a small elevated green protected by gorse and links rough, this hole lives up to its ranking of 3rd hardest hole.

The layout makes perfect use of the two small hills at either end of the course. The 12th hole links the two hills with the tee box on one and an exposed green on top of the other.

This area has the lowest rainfall in Northern Ireland and, with the free draining sandy base, the course remains playable all year round.

The Club crest depicts a wood on a hill. It is thought this refers to the original Course at Cherryvalley with the mound at Shandon Park in the background.

Lisburn Golf Club

It is testament to Fred Hawtree's architectural skills that his original plan for the course remains virtually unaltered since he first walked around the farm at Blaris Lodge and sketched it on the back of an envelope!

Lisburn Golf Club started off as a compact 9 hole course in the heart of the town at the turn of the 20th century. It moved to its present site in the early 1970's and Hawtree achieved what most golfers would regard as an ideal layout with two loops of nine holes, each starting and finishing at the Clubhouse and each composed of two par 5s, two par 3s and five par 4s.

This layout has been further enhanced with the planting of azaleas, rhododendrons, cherry blossom trees and specimen conifers that make Lisburn the "Augusta of the North" in the springtime.

As you progress round the course, you may need to exercise a variety of shots to manage your way around the water hazards and avenues of tree plantations. This is probably best exemplified by the signature hole, the 6th, measuring 158 yards, with a green surrounded by trees and guarded by water and bunkers. It demands an accurate tee shot and then a smooth putting stroke to cope with the gentle borrows on the two tier green.

Lough Erne Resort

Lough Erne, voted 'Golf Resort of the Year' (Irish Golf Tour Operators Association 2010), is home to two Championship golf courses – The Faldo Course and Castle Hume Course.

Designed by six time Major winner Sir Nick Faldo, Lough Erne is his first golf course design in Ireland. Its spectacular setting, nestled on a private 600 acre peninsula between Lower Lough Erne and Castle Hume Lough, is a course you will remember.

It will be no surprise that water comes into play a lot at Lough Erne, no less than 11 holes, and this is best tested at the tricky par 4 10th. Whilst being the 2nd shortest par 4 on the card, it is fraught with trouble, both off the tee and on your approach shot to the green. It takes an extremely accurate second shot as you are hitting into an island green, surrounded by

Situated behind the 9th green, you would be well advised to stop at the Halfway House for a light bite before tackling the 'Emerald Isle' 10th.

To add to its growing number of accolades, one of the USA's most respected golf publications, Golfweek voted Lough Erne Resort 7th in its category of Best of Great Britain and Ireland's Modern Classic Courses for 2011.

The site boasts 27 holes made up of Ballydrain, Drumbridge and Edenderry nines. The first two usually make up the main course but the Edenderry is great for young and new golfers to enjoy the game.

The centrepiece of the course is the natural trout lake extending for some 27 acres. The plentiful mature trees shape many of the holes with the lake coming into play on the 13th. The 15th features a tee shot over water to a tricky green. The round finishes with a daunting drive and any ball to the right of the 18th green is water bound so beware!

Since 1895, Malone has become famous across Ireland with many excellent amateur golfers and successful teams winning multiple All-Ireland pennants. Established in 1895, Massereene Golf Club offers a challenging and picturesque 18 hole par 72 parkland course. With panoramic views over Lough Neagh, it creates a challenge for all levels of skill and experience.

Situated on the north shores of Lough Neagh, Massereene Golf Club enjoys panoramic views of the Lough as far as County Tyrone on the west side. Stretched over 140 acres, you can enjoy a stunning parkland course with an array of fairways outlined by mature trees.

The first hole is a good indication of what challenge lie ahead. The first nine are tree lined with well placed bunkers; the inward nine consists of more undulating fairways, reminiscent of a links course, finishing on the 18th green beside the clubhouse.

Equally the narrow fairways and small greens place a priority on accuracy rather than distance, making it a rewarding test for even the lower handicap golfer.

With lush fairways, silky smooth greens and spectacular views of Lough Neagh, Massereene Golf Club offers a fantastic challenge and a wonderful day out.

Massereene Golf Course sits on the shores of Lough Neagh, the largest freshwater lake in the British Isles. The mound on the 12th hole was built around 1560 to act as a beacon for boats returning across the lough from Tyrone to Antrim.

Newtown Stewart Golf Club

This delightful course lies at the foot of Bessie Bell mountain, two miles from the town of Newtown Stewart. Mature trees and natural fairway undulations make this an interesting and enjoyable challenge for golfers of all standards.

Founded in 1914, Newtown Stewart Golf Club forms part of the Baronscourt Estate, home of the Duke of Abercorn.

The club is easily accessible, just five minutes from the main A5 Omagh to Strabane road. This beautiful 18th hole parkland course commands panoramic views of the surrounding Sperrin mountains and being part of the historic Baronscourt Estate has specimen oak and beech trees that are in excess of two hundred years old.

The emphasis at the club is on friendliness rather than formality and a warm welcome awaits all golfers, from their first contact with the well stocked Golf Shop, to their sojourn in the clubhouse where the professional bar and catering staff will ensure an enjoyable end to the day. The practice ground at the club is second to none, with separate areas for chipping, putting and bunker play complementing our new six bay driving range with expert tuition from our resident professional at our golf academy.

Omagh Golf Club

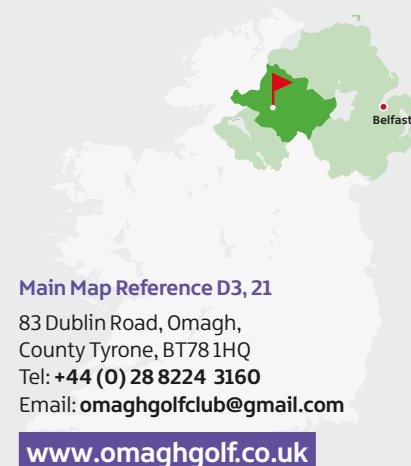

Situated in the heart of Tyrone's county town, Omagh Golf Club boasts a stunning 18 hole parkland course. Consisting of two contrasting nines situated either side of the Dublin Road, the par 71 offers a significant challenge to members and visitors alike.

Evolving from a testing 9-hole stretch in 1910, Omagh upgraded to an 18-hole course in 1983 under the expert design of Don Patterson, professional and golf architect. The new-look Omagh soon established itself as one of the province's finest parkland courses. Well publicised visits from Ireland golfing legend Christy O'Connor Jr, and multiple winner Nick Faldo (both of whom were complimentary about the test posed by the Omagh course) gave an indication of the club's progression in the 1980s.

Famed for its demanding par fours and fast paced greens, the 7th hole probably exemplifies this. Framing the mill on the hill, a real sight at twilight, this shot par 4 offers trouble all around. Bunkers and young trees on the right penalise those steeling away from The Drumnagh River, whilst a second shot over an almost magnetic stream to a false fronted green nestling the riverbank can cause several wasted strokes.

Omagh Golf Club's recorded history dates back to 1891 when a heady 20 members listed it as one of ten clubs in existence in Ireland at that time. The Club then moved to its current site and affiliated in 1910, and in 2010 celebrated its centenary.

Portstewart Golf Club

Portstewart Golf Club is proud to offer 54 holes of golf spectacularly set on Northern Ireland's famous Causeway Coast with something to offer every golfer.

The Strand Course is the indisputable jewel in Portstewart's crown for quality of game and scenery. The course is set in classic links country amid towering sand dunes and views of the Donegal hills, the Atlantic and the River Bann. The first hole with its elevated tee, dogleg to the green and sandy strip on the right, is considered the best opening hole in Ireland.

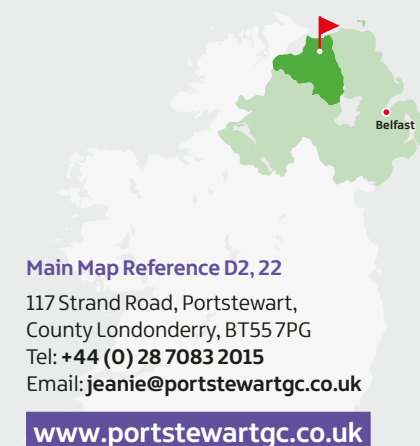

For something less challenging, the Riverside Course stretches from the clubhouse down to the River Bann. And if you like a little heritage in your game, the original Old Course has tested players since 1894.

The present clubhouse has come a long way from the corrugated iron and wooden frame of 1895. The present building, completed in 2009, makes it one of the most modern clubhouses in Ireland.

Without doubt, Portstewart has championship pedigree having hosted numerous important events and competitions including the qualifying rounds of The Open in 1951, the British Ladies Senior Championship in 2004 and the British Girls Amateur Championship in 2006.

Rockmount Golf Club

With excellent greens and testing holes over the lake, ponds and stream, this course is a masterpiece for golfers of all standards.

Nestled into the drumlins of north County Down, the 18 holes at Rockmount Golf Club have matured into a challenging parkland course.

The course has been cleverly designed so that the natural terrain is incorporated throughout. Water plays its part with hazards around the 5th and 6th greens and a small pond in front of the 14th tee. Large trees strategically added through the course will cause some tricky approach shots to the 8th and 15th greens in particular.

The signature hole is the 11th. This par 4 has a touch of ‘Pete Dye’ about it, ample room for the drive, followed by a demanding second shot into a green fronted with water.

Rockmount Clubhouse is tastefully decorated in old brick and solid oak creating a warm homely atmosphere. From the dining room you can take in the panoramic view of the golf course and the famous Mourne Mountains. There is no doubt Rockmount is an excellent test of golf you are sure to enjoy.

Roe Park Resort

Roe Park Resort is set amidst the gorgeous surroundings of the Roe Valley Country Park, offering first-class amenities for every level of golfer.

This 18 hole course is a welcome and very popular course along the Causeway Coast even more so since 2017 having undergone a £1m upgrade. The layout includes a number of challenging water features and takes full advantage of this beautiful setting, with Lough Foyle and the Sperrin Mountains providing a dramatic backdrop.

The 265 yard, par 4 15th hole provides a real risk and reward opportunity with the long hitters being able to reach it from the elevated tee. The sympathetically restored 18th century Coach House contains the informal dining Brasserie, which immediately overlooks the 6th hole from tee to green, allowing diners to become “armchair golfers” for the day!

The Golf Academy is designed to provide the best facilities to help you improve your game, whether you’re an absolute beginner or the next Rory McIlroy. An indoor studio uses state of the art systems to analyse and record your swing, while the outdoor driving range utilises the latest technology in synthetic grass to give you that realistic club to turf contact.

Tandragee Golf Club

Views from the 10th hole tee span three counties with the Slieve Donard mountain in County Down on the left and the Sperrin Mountains in County Tyrone ahead.

The course was developed in 1911 on the Duke of Manchester's Estate and green fees were collected at the Gate Lodge, which is still the entrance to the club. In 1928, green fees were set at "two shillings per day with no reduction for visitors staying with members overnight".

Tandragee Golf Club is a formidable yet picturesque 18 hole parkland course, set in the scenic County Armagh countryside. Parts of the course overlook the ancient Tandragee Castle and on many holes golfers can admire the mature woodlands astride the fast flowing River Cusher. The duck pond is an unusual attraction at Tandragee Golf Club, often visited by golfers and non-golfers alike.

'The Wall', par 4 11th, is regarded as the signature hole and commands respect. The original boundary wall of the Estate marks out of bounds on the right while the trees on the left guide you to a slightly hidden green.

Itineraries

A few ideas for your Northern Ireland adventure

Causeway Coast

Some unmissables on the Causeway Coastal Route

Golfing at Galgorm

This is how you start a golf trip! Your adventure across Northern Ireland gets underway at Galgorm Castle Golf Club. This beautiful 18-hole, par-72 championship course covers 220 acres of lush parkland and hosts the NI Open.

If you're playing Galgorm Castle Golf Club, you've got a real treat waiting for you off-course. Right next door, you'll find one of the region's most spectacular resorts, Galgorm Resort & Spa. Make sure you recharge post-game in one of the many restaurants, bars or riverside hot-tubs.

Causeway Coastal Route

Time to hit the road. But not just any old road. The gorgeous Causeway Coastal Route is an iconic drive along a dramatic coastline with ocean vistas you can't help stopping to stare at. National Geographic even named it among the world's greatest road trips. Bring the good camera!

Spots to stop

There are dozens of great places to visit along the Causeway Coastal Route. Among the absolute must-sees are the mind-boggling natural wonder of the Giant's Causeway, and the knuckle-whitening Carrick-a-Rede, a 350-year-old rope bridge that lets you cross the Atlantic on foot. Need to settle your nerves after that? Stop by the world's oldest working distillery for a wee sample or two at the nearby Bushmills Distillery.

Bushmills Inn

Here's a very special hideaway on your trip. The Bushmills Inn is a former coaching inn dating back to the 1700s. Today, you get modern luxury, but it doesn't compromise its heritage. You can really feel the history when you wander under its low wood-beam ceilings, through narrow stone corridors, and find its rustic fireside snugs. It's a must for any visitor to the area.

Royal Portrush Golf Club

You can't miss Royal Portrush while you're here. It's the only club on the island to have hosted The Open, and it hosts it again in 2019. Recently ranked in the world's top 10 courses, Royal Portrush has two championship links courses with jaw-dropping views as far as Scotland and Donegal. It also has some of the most dramatic and challenging holes in world (over-hit your second shot on the fifth and your ball will be lost to the roaring Atlantic Ocean!

There are plenty more gems to find along the glorious Causeway Coastal Route, including Game of Thrones® filming locations, lunch with a view at Harry's Shack in Portstewart, and the much-loved Ramore restaurants in Portrush.

North Down /Ards

Spots to look-up in County Down

Hollywood Golf Club

Kick-off your trip by following in the footsteps of one of the world's greatest golfers. The fairways of Hollywood Golf Club forged the skills of four-time Major winner Rory McIlroy. This 6118-yard, par-66 parkland course sits high in Northern Ireland's very own Hollywood Hills, giving you stunning views of Belfast Lough and the eastern end of the Causeway Coastal Route.

Rayanne House

For a truly unforgettable dining experience, get to Rayanne House. You can sit down to the very menu served aboard the Titanic. It's a once-in-a-lifetime chance for foodies and history enthusiasts to time-travel and get a taste of life aboard the world's most iconic ship, one of Northern Ireland's greatest exports.

Royal Belfast Golf Club

This is a true taste of history. Royal Belfast is the oldest golf course in Ireland, and still retains so much of its original charm. That endurance is a testament to the skill of the course's designer, the famous H.S. Colt. You'll adore the challenge of this classic par-70 course and reliving your best shots in the Victorian clubhouse afterwards.

Culloden Estate and Spa

By now you've put in plenty of yards on the course, and it's time to treat yourself in one of the finest hotels in Northern Ireland. The 5-star Culloden Estate and Spa will really spoil you. It was originally built on this beautiful 12-acre estate as the official palace of a prominent bishop. Today it's one of the most exclusive hotels on the island, offering fine local cuisine in its Mitre Restaurant and the perfect spot for a nightcap in The Cultra Inn.

Kirkistown Castle Golf Club

You'll find the island's most easterly golf course in the tiny village of Cloughey, perched out there on the edge the Ards Peninsula. The legendary golf course architect James Braid designed its layout in 1934 and little has changed since. It's still a tough round for any golfer. With 6167 windswept yards to negotiate, you'll need a good strategy to even get close to the course par of 69.

Fiddlers Green

In the seaside idyll of Portaferry, you'll find a traditional little pub full of surprises. Fiddlers Green is a family-run pub and hotel that's always overflowing with characters, live music and great Guinness. It's even home to one of the famous Game of Thrones® doors. One of only 10 such doors, it was handcarved from a fallen tree at The Dark Hedges, one of dozens of the filming locations here in Game of Thrones® Territory.

Spending a little more time in the area? Play the beautiful course at Clondeboy Golf Club or test yourself at Scrabo Golf Club, voted the 7th toughest course in Ireland.

South Down

A few high points among the Mournes

Ardglass Golf Club

Your toughest opponent at Ardglass is always the Irish Sea, as it comes into play in a total of 8 holes. These are among the most picturesque and challenging holes anywhere on the island. You'll play over rocky inlets and rugged coastlines with the sea and wind a regular hazard. Even the clubhouse is spectacular – the 15th century structure is the oldest building in the world that's being used as a clubhouse. This is an unforgettable visit for any golfer.

Royal County Down

This course needs little introduction. Royal County Down is the world's number 1 golf course (Golf Digest, 2017). Originally laid out in 1889 by 'Old' Tom Morris from St. Andrews, the course is set in the beautiful setting of Murlough Nature Reserve. The 7187-yard championship course features narrow ribbons of zig-zagging fairways dotted with famous 'bearded' bunkers. This one is a must.

Slieve Donard Resort and Spa

Right next to the world's greatest golf course is a world-class spa resort. Slieve Donard sits in the stunning seaside town of Newcastle, where the majestic Mourne mountains meet the Irish Sea. As soon as you get here you realise exactly why it won five prestigious awards at the 2017 Irish Hotels Awards – its original Victorian features, luxurious modern interiors and beautiful spa are an absolute treat.

Shortcross Gin Distillery Tour

If you're a gin fan, you can't miss the Shortcross Gin Distillery Tour. Made on the Rademon Estate, this is Northern Ireland's first premium crafted gin, and the most-awarded gin on the island of Ireland. You'll soon see why, as the Shortcross experts teach you how they harvest local botanicals, distil with their copper pot still, and perfect the finished product.

Castle Ward

Northern Ireland is Game of Thrones® Territory. This is where most of the world's biggest TV show is shot, and the filming locations are a magnet for the show's many millions of fans. That includes this immersive behind-the-scenes tour of Castle Ward, the location that served as 'Winterfell' in the HBO smash hit. For the uninitiated, it's a rare chance to see how TV's biggest show is made, for a Game of Thrones® fan it is simply heaven.

Warrenpoint Golf Club

With the Mourne Mountains and Carlingford Lough as your backdrop, you'd be forgiven for not focusing on your swing at Warrenpoint Golf Club. It's a gorgeous 6173-yard parkland gem set in an official Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB). It's also home to a world record - club member Jim Carvill holds the global record for the fastest ever round of golf (27 minutes and 30 seconds).

Explore more:

There are lots more golf clubs nearby, including Spa Golf Club in Ballynahinch and St Patrick's in Downpatrick, which is also home to great restaurants like Brunel's, Vanilla and Villa Vinci.

Greater Belfast

Some bright lights in our big city

Malone Golf Club

Start your Belfast golf break with a round at Malone Golf Club, a superb championship course with a beautiful trout lake as its centrepiece. While you're there, see if you can spot the upside down 'V' on the last post exiting the club. It means this estate was a 'safehouse' for both US and British soldiers during World War 1.

Shandon Park

This is one of the toughest parkland courses around. The course record is just six under par despite the best efforts of some of the world's best golfers. The two-shot sixth hole is a 455-yard giant, so you'll need accuracy from the tee and a pinpoint second shot downhill to make it to the protected green.

Grand Central Hotel

Belfast's newest luxury hotel is the perfect place to see more of Belfast. In fact, The Observatory cocktail lounge is the highest bar on the island of Ireland and gives you panoramic views of the city and beyond.

Savour Belfast

This city's culinary scene is booming. There have never been more world-class foodie options for visitors to enjoy. From the Michelin-starred hotspots like Deanes Eipic, to local institutions like Mourne Seafood Bar, there's something for every palate. And, of course, we know a thing or two about nightlife – just take a stroll through the bustling cobbled streets of the Cathedral Quarter and you're guaranteed to find a watering hole to suit the most diverse tastes.

Titanic Belfast

This city is one of Europe's rising stars on the tourist scene. Visitor numbers are climbing year on year, and it's no surprise with attractions like Titanic Belfast. The centrepiece of the blossoming Titanic Quarter, this stunning venue was voted the World's Leading Tourist Attraction (World Travel Awards, 2016). It's an unmissable immersive experience that tells the story of the world's most iconic ship on the very spot it was built.

Belvoir Park

Belvoir Park Golf Club boasts a distinguished history, having hosted The Irish Open, The Irish PGA, and The Irish Amateur Close. This stunning championship parkland course covers 163 acres of mature woodland, and is one of several Northern Irish courses designed by the master of the art, Harry S. Colt.

Explore more:

If you have more time in the city, make sure you check out Knock, Rockmount, and Dunmurry Golf Clubs. Off the course, visit Crumlin Road Gaol for history, Victoria Square for shopping, and The Friend at Hand Whiskey Shop and Tour for a wee dram and a dander.

West of NI

The best of the west

Lough Erne Resort & Spa

This might just be the ultimate 'stay and play' destination for golfers. The Lough Erne Resort & Spa is a luxurious hideaway in the Fermanagh Lakelands. You'll find stunning lakeside bars, the 3 AA Rosette Catalina Restaurant, a multi-award-winning Thai spa, and two beautiful golf courses.

Faldo & Castle Hume Courses

The Faldo Course at Lough Erne Resort & Spa is one of the finest on the island of Ireland. Designed by six-time Major winner Nick Faldo, the 7167-yard par-72 takes full advantage of its 600-acre peninsula setting. Water is an ever-present hazard and the green of the 10th hole is even surrounded on three sides by the lake. The Castle Hume course is another par-72 championship track that has hosted an unprecedented 10 Ulster PGA Championships.

Erne Water Taxi

To really travel in style in these parts, you need a chauffeur-driven water taxi. It's the best way to tour the serene Fermanagh Lakelands and island-hop at will. You can even explore Ireland's only island town, Enniskillen, from the water.

Cuilcagh Boardwalk

Every visitor should see this. The Cuilcagh Boardwalk gives you jaw-dropping views to rival any in Ireland. The 1.6km boardwalk across the bogland of Cuilcagh Mountain is an exhilarating experience, whether you're out for a stroll or a veteran hillwalker.

Omagh Golf Club

This course is famous for tough par-fours and speedy greens, so you'll have to be on your game in Omagh. The Drumragh River is an ever-present hazard through the front 9, while the back nine takes you towards the forest and some spectacular views of West Tyrone.

Marble Arch Caves

Fermanagh is even beautiful when viewed from below. The Marble Arch Caves are a fascinating natural labyrinth of caves, rivers, winding passages, and tunnels deep beneath the earth's surface. It's a one-off experience that's not to be missed, and it might be the only chance you ever get to take a subterranean boat ride!

Explore more:

got more time? Visit the Ulster American Folk Park in Omagh for some immersive time-travel, and Blakes of the Hollow in Enniskillen for live traditional music in a beautifully preserved old pub.

Derry

First-class spots in our second city

Roe Park

Deep in the stunning Roe Valley Country Park, you'll find one of Northern Ireland's best golf resorts. The Roe Park Resort gives you a beautiful parkland course with spectacular views across Lough Foyle, the Inishowen Peninsula and Binevenagh Mountain. Add that to facilities that include the driving range, practice holes, indoor interactive video coaching system and much more. This is golfing heaven.

Castlerock Golf Club

Castlerock is another stunning links course - two courses, in fact - on the Causeway Coastal Route. You'll play a par-5 that's been described as one of the most scenic holes in Irish golf and take on the famous 'Leg O'Mutton', a 200-yard par-3 with a raised green, a railway line to the right, and a stream to the left.

Bishops Gate Hotel

Here's the perfect city hideaway, somewhere packed with history but with all the contemporary comforts you'll ever need. This former Victorian clubhouse has actually hosted Winston Churchill and W.B. Yeats. But today, it's a chic hotel blending classic and contemporary in its Wig Champagne Bar and The Gown Restaurant.

Flavours of the city

As you would expect from one of Europe's youngest cities, the social and culinary scenes here are lively, adventurous and cool. Some of the best new spots include the Walled City Brewery, which was named the Best Gastro Pub in Ireland (Irish Restaurant Awards 2017), The Shipquay Restaurant, another example of the 'classic with a contemporary twist' vibe that Derry-Londonderry has mastered, and Paedar O'Donnell's, the home of live traditional music in the city.

City Walls

A tour of Derry-Londonderry's 450-year-old city walls is an absolute must for every visitor. These 17th Century fortifications have a fascinating history and make this the last completely walled city in Ireland and one of the finest examples in Europe. Don't miss your chance to explore them and meet 'Roaring Meg', the ear-splitting cannon used during the 1641 Siege.

Foyle Golf Club

Foyle International Golf Centre gives you access to a championship standard par-71 course on the outskirts of Northern Ireland's second city. And the course attracts some pretty famous visitors – on 21st May 1932, after a gruelling 15-hour flight, Amelia Earhart had an emergency landing on what is now the 6th green!

Our food so good

A clean, unspoiled environment. A mild climate and great growing conditions. Outstanding quality ingredients. And above all, passionate producers.

These are the key factors driving Northern Ireland's emergence as a premium foodie destination. Here you will find artisan dairy products, incredible seafood and meats, exceptional fruit and vegetables, innovative spirits and traditional craft beers – not forgetting one of the world's most famous whiskeys – and a whole lot more, including three Geographically Protected Foods: Lough Neagh Eels, Armagh Bramley Apples and Comber Early Potatoes.

Across the country new and established chefs are showcasing the best of what we produce here – in sea-front restaurants along the Causeway Coastal Route; in contemporary bistros and restaurants in Belfast and Derry~Londonderry; in cosy country pubs. Eating out is an excellent way to discover and experience the range and quality of our food. But there are many others too – for example, local food tours in Belfast and in the Ards Peninsula; and craft beer, gin and whiskey tours of both new and historic distilleries. You might even like to take a class in one of our excellent chef-run cookery schools.

Pub Licensing Hours

Monday-Saturday: 11:30 – 23:00.
Sunday: 12:30 – 22:00.
Some pubs with an Entertainment Licence can serve alcohol until 01:00.
Club opening times vary depending on the club.

Shopping

Victoria Square, Castle Court and many Belfast City centre stores have extended opening hours from 09:00 until 19:00 each weekday evening. Thursday is late night shopping until 21:00 (Wednesday - Friday in Victoria Square). Late night shopping varies in other towns/cities and may only include shopping centres/larger stores. On Sundays shops are open from 13:00 and stay open until 17:00/18:00 in Belfast and in many other towns/cities.

VAT

While you are in Northern Ireland you will pay Value Added Tax (VAT) on most goods that you purchase. If you wish to get a refund of VAT for larger purchases ask the retailer if they participate in the Retail Export Scheme.

Emergency Services

Dial 999 for emergency services.

If your passport is lost or stolen, contact the local police station, embassy or consulate.

Accessibility

There are many accessible attractions throughout Northern Ireland. Please contact the venue to check accessibility provisions prior to visiting.
